

Welcome to Workshop S2

Discovering the culture of resilience: the potential of traditional land-use practices in addressing the impacts of climate change

Speakers:

Prof. Dr. Bibiana Bilbao, Universidad Simón Bolívar, Venezuela

Mr Simon Peter Longoli, Karamoja Development Forum, Uganda

Ms Minnie Degawan, Igorot/Kankanaey, Philippines

Alexander Belyakov PhD, United Nations Environment Programme , Canada

Hosted by Silke Stöber PhD from the Centre for Rural Development (SLE) at Humboldt-University of Berlin and Sabine Schielmann from the Institute for Ecology And Action Anthropology (INFOE) , Cologne

Key questions from our speakers

- Ms Bibiana Bilbao, Universidad Simón Bolívar, Venezuela:
How to change the academic framework to promote participatory action research?
- Mr Simon Peter Longoli, Karamoja Development Forum, Uganda:
What do we need to do to increase research to better understand the economic and environmental contributions of pastoralists ?
- Ms Minnie Degawan, Igorot/Kankanaey, Philippines
How do we bring the results of researches back to the communities for them to use and act on?
- Mr Alexander Belyakov, United Nations Environment Programme , Canada
How we do mainstream a Two Eyed Seeing principle of Aboriginal People in Canada in our research and practice?